POISED FOR TOMORROW

Some places capture the spirit of their time. And then there are those rare destinations that belong to the future. New Chandigarh is one such tabula rasa, cradled by the quiet guardianship of the Shivaliks, yet alive with the energy of what is yet to come. An aerial photograph of a modern architectural complex. The building consists of several interconnected towers with a facade of horizontal metallic slats and large, irregularly shaped openings. The base of the building is landscaped with green lawns, palm trees, and a winding path. The surrounding area is densely forested with lush green trees.
